Residents are on board

Leyton's Lea Bridge Station, which reopened in May after 31 years of closure, is already exceeding passenger targets

Since reopening to passengers on Monday 16 May, Leyton's Lea Bridge Station (Argall Way, E10 7PG) has seen a significant number of people making use of the new station and its services.

Providing direct links to Stratford and Tottenham Hale, the station offers journey times as short as five minutes in either direction, compared to the 40 minutes it currently takes by bus. It was opened thanks to a £12million project led by Waltham Forest Council.

When the Council prepared its business case for the project, it estimated that the station would serve 350,000 passengers a year.

However, a passenger survey conducted at the station over three days in July showed that around 1,500 people are already using the station every weekday, with an average of 1,100 passengers on a Saturday. That means that around 450,000 journeys a year are likely to be made to and from London's newest station.

"We were extremely excited to reopen Lea Bridge Station after 31 years," said Council Leader, Chris Robbins. "Not just for people already living in the area, but also for local businesses and investors who are interested in this part of our borough."

"And it seems that residents are equally delighted, with passenger figures already exceeding our expectations just a few months later."

Services through the station currently run approximately every 30 minutes, and are provided by Abellio Greater Anglia. From 2018, this will increase to four trains an hour – or one every 15 minutes.

Supporting your hospital

Residents are invited to attend a public meeting about the future of Whipps Cross Hospital on Thursday 20 October

- You can help shape Whipps Cross Hospital improvement plans
- Part of commitment to helping create a thriving local hospital

Members of the public are being invited to give their views on what Whipps Cross Hospital (Whipps Cross Road, E11 1NR) could look like in the future.

Residents are invited to an event at the hospital's restaurant from 6pm to 8pm on Thursday 20 October, at which they can hear more about how to get involved in a project to develop a strategy for what Whipps Cross Hospital might look like in the coming years.

The work is being led by Barts Health, Waltham Forest Council, NHS Waltham Forest Clinical Commissioning Group and North East London NHS Foundation Trust. It follows the appointment earlier this year of a team of experts to undertake a review of the hospital estate and services, and begin to plan improvements.

Cllr Ahsan Khan, Cabinet Member for Health and Wellbeing, said: "This is a golden opportunity for residents across our community to have their say on what Whipps Cross and its services will look like in the future. It's only right that the very people who rely on the hospital be given the chance to take part in this hugely important process from the start."

In my opinion

Ruth Bashall

Director, Stay Safe East and Waltham Forest resident

Tottenham, October 2015: an elderly Turkish disabled man is assaulted on a bus. A passenger hurls racist abuse, accuses him of being a benefits scrounger and throws his walking frame away. The police take action; the perpetrator is found guilty of racially and religiously aggravated harassment and jailed for 16 weeks.

A one-off incident? No. This was one of many hate crimes in London last year. Some are reported to the police, many are not. Hate crime has a big impact on the victim and their community because someone is picked on for being 'different'. For example, they may be disabled, lesbian or gay, transgender, follow a different religion or are from overseas; like Arek Jozwik, the man murdered in Harlow in September.

Hate crime can also consist of lots of 'small' incidents that make a person's life miserable – calling someone names, laughing at the way they walk, dress or talk, deliberately parking in someone's disabled bay so they can't use their car. Each of these incidents is small, but put them together and you have a pattern of harassment aimed at someone because of who they are.

Until Saturday 15 October,

Waltham Forest will be marking National Hate Crime Awareness Week with a video in Walthamstow Town Square and information around the borough.

My organisation – Stay Safe East – has been working with disabled victims of hate crime for five years. We work with the police so victims get justice or just feel listened to. Sometimes victims think it won't make any difference if they speak out. But it will, because reporting hate crime is not just about telling the police, it's also about getting support to keep safe and advice on what other action you can take. Support could come from an advocate, friend, youth worker or teacher, a housing officer, or phone helplines.

So what if hate crime happens to you? Firstly, don't put up with it, tell someone!

You can report direct to the police – 999 if you are in danger, 101 if it has already happened or online at www.report-it.org.uk.

If you don't want to speak to the police, you can report hate crime to the Council on 020 8496 3000 or to your landlord if you live in social housing. There are several organisations you can phone:

GALOP (for LGBT/homophobic hate crime) 020 7704 2040 or locally, ELOP on 020 8509 3898.

Tell Mama (Islamophobic hate crime) 0800 456 1226.

Community Security Trust (anti-Semitic hate crime) 020 8457 9999.

Stay Safe East (Disability Hate Crime in Waltham Forest) phone or text 07587 134 122.

A Cleaner Air Borough

Waltham Forest has been awarded Cleaner Air Borough status by the Mayor of London, in recognition of the Council's work to improve air quality across the borough.

The award is part of the Mayor of London's Local Air Quality Management Framework, which is used by councils to improve air quality in their borough.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, said: "I am very proud that Waltham Forest has been awarded Cleaner Air Borough status. We recognise the importance of improving air quality, and the Mayor of London's office commended us on the wide range of measures we are working on in order to do this. This includes our work to improve cycling and walking infrastructure and linking air quality to public health.

"I am pleased that the new Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, has shown such commitment to improving air quality, and we will continue doing all we can to tackle pollution and maintain our Cleaner Air Borough status."

In order to achieve Cleaner Air Borough status local authorities must submit annual reports to the Mayor of London which evidence how they are working towards improving air quality. The criteria for achieving this status is grouped under six themes, which includes taking action, leading by example and informing the public. The status is reassessed annually.

Vehicle idling is a major contributor to air pollution, and is a particular concern around schools. The Council is looking to recruit local volunteers to encourage motorists to switch off their engines while stationary – especially during the 'school run'.

Residents can sign up to receive free air quality text alerts, providing them with an update whenever higher levels of air pollution are forecast. This is very useful for anyone with respiratory and cardiovascular illnesses or sensitivity to pollution. To sign up text AIRTEXT to 78070 or visit www.airtext.info.

Walthamstow town centre transport improvements

An aerial view of the Walthamstow gyratory

As Waltham Forest continues to grow, the Council is working hard to ensure that the transport network in Walthamstow town centre can support this growth so that everyone can get about easily. Some of this work starts on Tuesday 1 November and we want to make you aware of what is happening in advance.

In the short term the Council is working closely with Transport for London (TfL) to transform the 'Walthamstow gyratory', which is the area on Hoe Street and Selborne Road around Walthamstow Central tube station. This will make the town centre easier to get around, and more pleasant and safer for all road users.

From Tuesday 1 November to the end of December 2016 minor works will take place to improve the bus station exit and the main gyratory area. This will include widening the bus station exit and creating a new taxi and loading bay outside Tesco Express on Selborne Road, removing traffic islands in the middle of the gyratory area and setting up a base for contractors.

Both Hoe Street and Selborne Road will be open as usual, however during the works lanes will be rearranged and traffic management signs and cones will be in place to direct traffic. Although roads remain open we do expect some disruption, and for journeys to take longer than usual. Signs will be placed in the area around the gyratory and on approaching roads to warn drivers of the disruption.

The Council will also be consulting on longer term plans for the area early in 2017 and the feedback received will be used to help shape the final design. Subject to approval the main works will take place from January 2017 through to Summer 2018.

The longer term proposals will include a new public space that will make it easier to move between the tube and bus stations and a new bridge over the railway line to open up the area and create a simpler road layout for all road users. The main work on the new bridge will take place from January to summer 2017. There will also be more trees and plants, an improved bus station with better positioned bus stops, new pedestrian crossings and more cycle spaces.

In brief

Director sought

Want to lead an exciting new support service for voluntary and community organisations and social enterprises (VCSEs) in Waltham Forest? Want to help the sector be more than the sum of its parts in order to make a real difference in borough? If the answer is yes, Community Waltham Forest – a newly-established organisation responsible for helping local VCSEs overcome challenges posed by changes to funding in the sector – is looking to appoint a director. The ideal candidate will build relationships with a range of stakeholders in order to promote and support the work of VCSEs in Waltham Forest. One key element of the post will be to harness the community action taking place all over Waltham Forest, and make sure it's supported. This is a new Council-commissioned service in Waltham Forest, which will be managed by Community Southwark.

Chingford consultation

The consultation on plans to improve Chingford town centre for all road users has now closed, and the Council would like to thank everyone who took the time to give their views. Due to the high level of interest the consultation period was extended by a week to give everyone the opportunity to respond. There was also a high attendance at the drop-in sessions, and an extra session was arranged to accommodate everyone who wanted to take part. The Council will now shape the final design using the responses received, and will let residents know how and where it has used their ideas.

4 Priorities

Putting young people first

The Council has four key priorities to help improve the lives of everyone who lives and works in Waltham Forest. In this edition we look at what is being done to help young people with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) enjoy a good quality of life

We want all Waltham Forest residents to enjoy life in the borough, receiving the support they need alongside opportunities to reach their full potential – regardless of background, age or ability. It's for this reason the Council has just unveiled a new approach to providing education, health and social care services for young people with SEND. The new Disability Enablement Service (DES) brings together social workers, early years specialists, preparation for adulthood practitioners, assessment, planning and review officers and the borough's Short Breaks service into one single team. In doing so, the Council wants to make it as easy as possible for local families to access the range of support services available to them in the borough.

The new DES

Over the past 18 months, the Council has been talking to local families, along with schools and health professionals, about changes and improvements they would like to see to disability support services in the borough.

These conversations resulted in the creation of the DES, which was launched last month for children and young people with SEND aged up to 25.

Through the DES, Council officers aim to identify and assess needs as early as possible in order to fully support young people with SEND in the area – in turn improving their education, health and social care outcomes.

"This is all about giving maximum support to local families, based on what they've told us they need most," said Cllr Grace Williams, Cabinet Member for Children and Young People.

"No more disconnect between support services – the DES will provide a joined-up, quality service that is responsive and flexible as our young people grow and move into adulthood.

"We're absolutely committed to doing all we can to ensure our young people have the best start in life, while getting access to the same opportunities as each other."

By providing families with a single point of access, the DES aims to reduce the need for multiple assessments, and by reaching children earlier in life, it hopes to offer families greater reassurance around long-term support options. It has been designed to bring about improvements local families both want and deserve.

The DES has two teams – one for the north of the borough, and the other supporting families in the south. Each team comprises education, health and social care support officers working alongside each other.

Support officers will be assigned to families as their named caseworker. While they will still develop their relationships with schools and other settings, this approach is designed to make accessing support less complicated and more personal for families.

Short Breaks

The Short Breaks service, which offers high quality respite to families with a disabled child, is another example of a service that parents, carers, children and young people have helped to shape.

Their input played a key role in shaping the Short Break service eligibility criteria, ensuring local people in need of support understand the kind of help they can receive, how to navigate services and particularly where they can go to get support without the need for an assessment.

A Short Break can last from a few hours to a few days. It can take place in your own home, at a carer's home or in a number of other settings, such as an overnight residential Short Break during which the parent/carer has a night-time break.

Activities that children and young people can enjoy on a Short Break include holiday schemes, weekend schemes, outreach support and adventure play.

To access the Short Breaks service a child or young person needs to have an assessment of their needs – a self-referral form is available via the Council's website. Those eligible will then be allocated an agreed-upon number of Short Breaks hours and any other support that is needed – and the family can mix and match services from the directory that suits them best.

Project SEARCH

The Project SEARCH programme in Waltham Forest is co-ordinated by Whitefield Academy Trust in partnership with Barts Health NHS Trust, Kaleidoscope Sabre supported employment services and educational establishments from across the borough and neighbouring areas.

It is just one example of an employment pathway DES users can access in order to secure work. A year-long supported internship programme, Project SEARCH is for young people between the ages of 16-25 with special needs or autism. It consists of three 10 week placements, which help those taking part build essential job skills – in turn helping them move a step closer towards getting a permanent job.

Split across two bases – Whipps Cross Hospital and Mile End Hospital – interns are supported by an on-site team of tutors, job coaches and work place managers and mentors.

You can find out about all of the services available through the DES by viewing The Local Offer at www.walthamforest.childrensservicedirectory.org.uk, or phoning 020 8496 6503.

What you say

Young people who have received support from the borough's disability services share their experiences with Waltham Forest News

Jessica Boateng, who took part in Project SEARCH after studying Health and Social Care at Leyton Sixth Form College, enjoyed placements in different departments at Whipps Cross Hospital.

Jessica told Waltham Forest News: "While working in the hospital's restaurant, the local authority offered me an opportunity for some paid part-time employment selling ice creams from a 1950s ice cream van at the Secret Cinema's production of Dirty Dancing in July. This helped build my confidence and independence further, and helped me and my mum believe I could get a paid job.

"I had a well-deserved holiday in America and when I came back my job coach at Project SEARCH told me to come back and continue my experience in the restaurant for a few more weeks.

"After three days the catering manager in the hospital offered me a full-time permanent job in the restaurant. I have been working there since and I am really happy."

Aaron Plummer, a 16-year-old student at William Morris School, works with the Council, championing the views and needs of fellow young people.

Aaron said: "I was part of the William Morris School Council and now I am volunteering for the Council as a SEND Champion.

"I am the link between the local authority, the school and other young people. I help collect the views and opinions of young people and feed this back to the Disability Enablement Service at the Council.

"This ensures that young people's voices are heard when developing new services and the Local Offer.

"I will be helping the council to recruit more SEND champions to support the work we have started.

"I have also achieved a personal goal recently, which was running the London Mini Marathon."

In brief

Biodiversity funding

Funding is being made available for every ward in Waltham Forest so that communities can deliver projects to establish and encourage biodiversity in their local area. The Council has made £1,000 available to each ward, which residents can bid for to spend on biodiversity projects such as creating animal homes and shelters, opening up and improving areas of interest, providing new interpretation boards, creating new wildflower meadow areas, water gardens, natural hedges and specialist habitats. Residents can put forward their ideas now by contacting their local ward councillor.

• To find contact details for your local ward councillor visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/your-local-councillor.

Cycle award

Waltham Forest was a winner again at the National Cycle Planning Awards last month, with the Council bagging the prize for Best Cycling Network Strategy or Masterplan. The independent judging panel praised the Council's unique cycling infrastructure, engagement with local needs and clear vision for encouraging people to take up cycling. The ceremony took place on Friday 23 September at Glaziers Hall in Southwark. At last year's inaugural award ceremony, which was held in Walthamstow Assembly Hall, Waltham Forest was the winner of the 'Best Innovation – use of technology or new technique' category for the Walthamstow Village trial.

Dedicated members of the Walthamstow Village Residents' Association held a spring clean earlier this year

Could you be an Enviro-hero?

- New initiative brings together volunteering opportunities across the borough
- Find out how you can make a real difference in your community

Would you like to join up with other community-minded residents to improve the local environment and make your neighbourhood a better place to live? If so then you can sign up now to be a Waltham Forest Enviro-hero!

Enviro-heroes is a new Council-led initiative which aims to bring together Waltham Forest residents who selflessly volunteer their time and energy to make their local neighbourhoods cleaner, safer and more enjoyable to live in.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, told Waltham Forest News: "We know that our residents are passionate about preserving and improving the local area, and many give up their free time to improve the local environment and contribute to other good causes. Enviro-heroes is all about supporting these activities and bringing together volunteers so we can make an even bigger difference together."

"We also recognise that some residents are not able to commit as much time as they would like, but would still be available on a more 'ad hoc' basis. Enviro-heroes is therefore all about promoting a wide range of local volunteering opportunities, so people can still contribute even if their time is limited."

Residents can register on the Enviro-heroes website, which will then give them access to a range of volunteering opportunities nearby. They can also access further information on each opportunity, such as what will be required of them and how much time they will need to commit.

There are a number of opportunities coming up for residents who would like to help preserve and enhance the local environment in Waltham Forest. Later this month there will be allotment plot clearance events in Higham Hill Common (Green Pond Road, E17 6EB) and Bateman Road Allotments (Burnside Avenue, E4 8YJ). In November there will be two Dagenham Brook 'spruce up' events in Leyton Jubilee Park.

If horticulture is your thing then the Council is looking to recruit and train a 'Green Team' of volunteers who will support new growers across the borough. There is a vast network of keen food growers in Waltham Forest, which is celebrated during the borough's annual Cultivate festival. This year's programme was extended to two weeks, taking place in March and September to cover the full food growing season.

The Council is also looking for green-fingered volunteers who can help with building raised beds on our housing estates and planting new trees in our parks this November.

The Enviro-heroes website will also include some of the Council's well established volunteering schemes, including the annual Spring Clean. This year's Spring Clean, which took place in March, saw thousands of residents, schools and community groups come together to make their neighbourhoods cleaner and tidier. Over the course of two weekends a whopping 50 tonnes of waste was cleared and 2,000 bedding plants were planted.

Another well-established Council volunteer scheme is Snow Angels

– the group of trusty residents who help keep your local pavements and paths safe if they get covered in ice and snow. The Snow Angels scheme was established back in 2009, and has grown to include over 1,000 volunteers. That makes it the largest Council-run volunteer scheme of this kind in London.

Anyone who volunteers to become a Snow Angel is provided with a 20 kilogramme bag of grit, a branded hi-visibility vest, protective gloves and a snow shovel by the Council – all free of charge.

Cllr Loakes added: "Snow Angels is a truly brilliant and valuable scheme. Winter will soon be upon us so if you'd like to sign up and help your community stay safe during severe weather please get in touch now."

Foul behaviour targeted

- Council crackdown on dog fouling in parks and public places
- Owners can be issued with fixed penalty notices and could end up in court

The Council held a special 'day of action' to help stop dog fouling in Leyton Jubilee Park

As one of the greenest boroughs north of the Thames, it's no surprise that Waltham Forest's parks and open spaces are popular spots for dog walking. Unfortunately, a minority of owners are still not cleaning up after their dog, which is an offence and can spoil the enjoyment of our parks for everyone else.

To give you an idea of how bad the problem can be, the Council identified over 650 instances of dog fouling in the grounds of Leyton Jubilee Park (Seymour Road, E10 7BL) over a three-day period in September 2016.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment said: "We want to keep our parks clean and safe for everyone to enjoy, so it's a shame that some people are still not getting the message about the importance of cleaning up after their dogs.

"Residents should be aware that they can use the litter bins in public parks to dispose of their dog mess, or take it away with them. Allowing your dog to foul in our parks and other public spaces and not cleaning it up is an offence and we will issue fixed penalty notices to anyone we catch."

The Council recently held a special day of action in Leyton Jubilee Park to make sure dog walkers are aware of their responsibility to clean up after their four-legged friends. New dog mess bag dispensers are also being trialled at all four entrances of the park, so owners have no excuse for not picking up after their pets. If this proves successful then the Council will look to provide these dispensers in other parks across the borough.

If you get caught by a Council enforcement officer allowing your dog to foul in a public place without clearing it up you are liable for a fixed penalty notice (FPN) which carries an £80 fine. If you refuse to pay the fine within 14 days you could be taken to court, where the fine could rise to £1,000.

Residents are asked to report dog fouling to the Council so it can be cleared and action can be taken to track down the culprits. It's easy to report an enviro-crime, just visit the Council website to find out how.

Skip company cautioned

A skip company has received a formal caution for repeatedly depositing skips on the public highway in Waltham Forest without a licence. Barking-based Hira Logistics Ltd, which trades as Hira Skips, had previously been issued with fixed penalty notices by the Council's Neighbourhoods team, but continued to leave skips filled with waste on roads in the borough without a required licence. On Monday 19 September they were given a formal caution for unlawfully depositing skips on the public highway, contrary to the Highways Act 1980. The company also agreed to pay £1,100 towards the Council's prosecution costs.

The Mill is a much-loved community hub, open to all residents

The Mill celebrates five years

- Much-loved community hub marked fifth birthday in September
- Get involved in local projects, volunteer or pop in for a book

Since opening its doors to residents five years ago, Walthamstow's community-led hub, The Mill (7-11 Coppermill Lane, E17 7HA) has seen thousands of local people enjoy its packed programme of events and activities.

Housed in the former St James Street Library, which closed in 2007, The Mill was formally opened on Thursday 8 September 2011. Hardworking Walthamstow residents brought the empty building back into use as a community space available to all, and it has gone from strength to strength ever since.

Members of local residents' association, Blackhorse Action Group, and other community and campaign groups were initially able to keep the building open as a public space by securing funding of £150,000 from Nesta – an independent charity that works to increase innovation in the UK – and the Big Lottery Fund.

The Mill is open Tuesday to Friday, 9.30am to 6pm and on weekends between 10am and 2pm. The varied list of events and interest groups available means there's something to tempt everyone. The centre hosts activities including a laughter club, a gardening club, art workshops for children and adults, Spanish and Urdu lessons, sewing and knitting clubs, physical activity sessions, children's activities, an Asian Women's Support Group, a community radio group, art exhibitions, a social group for new parents and much, much more.

In keeping with the building's past, there is also an honesty library which is stocked with books donated by local people. The Mill always accepts book donations, and any surplus stock is passed onto other charitable organisations, or used to raise funds.

The centre has a community 'living room' and residents are encouraged to drop in any time during opening hours for a hot drink, to relax, have a chat or read the paper. You will be asked to make a small donation to The Mill for your drink.

There is also a fantastic children's room, which is packed full of toys and games for all ages.

You can hire The Mill for children's parties between 2pm and 5pm on weekends. Hire costs £120 for three hours and includes exclusive use of the children's room and the garden room.

And The Mill is the perfect place if you'd like to start your own activity or community group. You can hire a room from just £10 an hour. There are a variety of different rooms available, and you could even hire your own office for £420 per month.

Chair of Trustees, Hannah Guthrie, told Waltham Forest News: "The Mill exists to benefit local people, and over the past five years has done so much to enrich this area of Walthamstow.

"One essential element to our success is that we take risks on new ideas, and we don't ask people to have a long track record of delivering projects. We know that there are many local people with amazing skills, knowledge and energy who might not have led a project before, but would like to try.

"We think these people are a unique asset to The Mill, and our mission has been to develop packages of support to help them reach their potential.

"We are incredibly lucky to have a fabulous, well-used community space that will benefit Walthamstow for many more years to come, and I encourage everyone to find out how they can get involved. Whether that's by attending an activity, renting a room for a meeting, setting up a new club or simply popping in to read a book from our honesty library."

A Play Street took place on Seaford Road, Walthamstow earlier this summer

It's time to play!

- Play Streets allow children to enjoy outdoor play in safety
- Residents encouraged to set up Play Streets in their area

Residents are being encouraged to take part in Play Streets – a community-led scheme that allows people to close their street to traffic on certain days so that children can enjoy playing outside in a safe environment.

Following a successful pilot in Wood Street in 2013, a number of Play Streets have been set up in Waltham Forest, and the Council has adopted a simplified application process to make it easy to get one set up. Play Streets allows residents to establish a regular closing time, with a consensus required from residents within a road to allow it to be closed for an agreed period.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, told Waltham Forest News: "Playing outside is something that all of our young people should be able to experience regularly, as it keeps them active and allows them to interact with other children. However with the traffic on our local roads I understand why parents would be reluctant to let their children play out. A Play Street removes that worry as it allows roads to be closed for an agreed period of time, meaning children can play outside safely."

So far this year Play Streets have taken place on the following roads in the borough – Brooke Road, Oakfield Road, Melbourne Road, Turner Road, Cleveland Park Avenue, Ferndale Avenue and Seaford Road. All of these streets are in Walthamstow, so the Council is keen for more to take place right across the borough.

"I'd like next year to be the 'Summer of Play Streets' in Waltham Forest, with children all over the borough being able to enjoy playing outside with their friends safely", added Cllr Loakes.

"We've made the process as straightforward as possible, so you don't need to worry about working through mountains of paperwork to get one set up. You will just need to ensure that you have spoken to other residents on your street so they are aware of your plans."

If you would like to organise a Play Street for your area you need to complete an application form, which you can request by email. When completing the form you will need to show some evidence that you have discussed the plans with your neighbours, and provide details of any concerns they have raised. If your application is approved the Council will introduce a traffic order to legally close the street on the day you have decided. The Council can also provide 'Road Closed' signs free of charge prior to your first event.

It can take around two months to get the traffic order in place, so the Council is urging residents to start planning now if they would like to introduce a Play Street next year.

London Play is an organisation that is dedicated to ensuring that children have the opportunity to play. They work with local authorities and residents to help establish Play Streets, and can provide help and advice if you are looking to set one up in your area.

Walthamstow resident, Susan Bailey, told Waltham Forest News: "We organised two Play Streets on Seaford Road over the summer. The best part was watching our children play happily together. The streets are so busy now they don't usually have the freedom to play outside their own front doors, so it was great to offer them something different.

"We have plans to make our Play Street a regular event, as it was great for the children but also a positive way to get the local community together and meet new people."

More info

If you would like to apply to set up a Play Street in your area, email traffic.scheme@walthamforest.gov.uk. For more information on London Play visit www.londonplay.org.uk.

Stoptober

If you're a smoker who wants to kick the habit, there is still time to get involved in the Stoptober challenge. The campaign encourages smokers to quit during October, as research shows that if you stop smoking for 28 days you are five times more likely to stop for good. The campaign offers smartphone apps, daily emails and information packs providing encouragement and advice on managing withdrawal symptoms. You can also get free expert advice from the Waltham Forest Stop Smoking Service, which can support you and help you find the right stop smoking products such as nicotine patches or gum to help combat your cravings. People who use NHS support are four times more likely to quit than those who try to go it alone.

• Visit www.nhs.uk/oneyou or search the internet for 'Stoptober'. Phone 0800 032 0102 for local advice, or email stopsmokingservice@nelft.nhs.uk.

YOUR VOTE MATTERS

DON'T LOSE IT

Voter Registration

Our voter registration team has now started to call at households where no response has been received to the forms we delivered in August and September. If we still need information from you, they will be calling to help you complete the Household Enquiry Form, and to register anyone in your household who isn't currently on the electoral register. It is important that we collect this information from you so that we can make sure that everyone who is entitled to be registered is included.

It is quicker and easier to return your household information by telephone, text or online if you prefer – you can find details of how to do this on your form, along with the unique security code information you will need to complete your return. If you are not yet registered to vote you can also do this online at www.gov.uk/register-to-vote – it takes less than five minutes, and you will need to have your National Insurance Number to hand.

If you have any questions about voter registration activity or about registering to vote, please phone our Contact Centre on 020 8496 3000 or email electoral.services@walthamforest.gov.uk.

Borough marks Black History Month

- Events for everyone as borough celebrates Black History Month
- Programme of activities includes popular Black History Comedy Night

A photo from the Bernie Grant MP Archive, showing a 1993 protest following the death of Joy Gardner

Waltham Forest is once again getting behind the annual Black History Month celebrations in a big way, with free events planned for residents of all ages to enjoy.

The Council has teamed up with educational collective Black History Walks to take part in the nationwide event, which has celebrated black history, arts and culture throughout Britain every October for over 35 years.

A range of distinctive cultural events have been planned through this project – contributing to the creation of an exciting Black History Month 2016 programme, which includes the borough's annual Black History Comedy Night and events in libraries, the William Morris Gallery and Vestry House Museum.

The programme offers residents across Waltham Forest the opportunity to participate in art and cultural activities while learning about black history through spoken word, film screenings and interactive presentations.

It begins with an interactive presentation entitled Black British Civil Rights Heroes 1596 to 2006. Taking place at Chingford Assembly Hall (Station Road, E4 7EN) from 6.30pm to 9pm on Wednesday 19 October, this event will mark the individual achievements of black people born or living in the UK who fought against racism over the last 400 years.

On Saturday 22 October, Leyton Sixth Form College (Essex Road, E10 6EQ) will host two events. First up is the film Coming to England: The Floella Benjamin Story, from 2pm to 3.30pm. A film for young and old alike, it tells the true story of a little Trinidadian girl who came to England on a ship in the 1960s, was bullied in school but went on to be one of the first black women on British TV.

Straight after the film, from 3.30pm until 6.30pm, Black History Walks will host a seminar entitled 'How to brainwash the youth and make them act like fools!', which will look at popular and mainstream culture from a black history perspective.

On Monday 24 October, from 6.30pm to 9pm at Leytonstone Library (6 Church Lane E11 1HG) visitors will be able to enjoy an event called The Black History of Prince: An audio visual journey through his past. The late pop star's legacy will be remembered and celebrated through an interactive presentation and review of his musical career, using video clips, interviews and audience participation.

Finally, there will be a series of 45-minute illustrated presentations hosted by spoken word artists at Walthamstow School for Girls (Church Hill, E17 9RZ) from 12noon to 5pm on Saturday 29 October.

The all-day conference, entitled Europe's Black History: A Spoken Word Conference, will discuss topics such as the black presence in ancient and modern Europe, African soldiers in European wars, campaign group Black Lives Matter and Brexit, and how social media can be better used to shine a spotlight on black history.

Tony Warner, Director of Black History Walks, told Waltham Forest News: "I am pleased to be curating this programme. All the events are new to the borough, have a fresh perspective and will be interactive throughout – therefore engaging kids and adults alike."

Council Leader Chris Robbins said: "Once again Waltham Forest is hosting a series of exciting and insightful free events to acknowledge the huge contribution black residents have made to our borough."

"We're immensely proud of our diverse borough and its fantastic sense of community, and I hope residents from all walks of life, cultures and countries take this opportunity to help us celebrate Black History Month."

Events

One of the headline events during the month-long celebration is the Black History Comedy Night on Friday 28 October. Hosts Robbie Gee and Eddie Nestor will oversee another brilliant night of comedy and music at Walthamstow Assembly Hall (Forest Road, E17 4JD) featuring Slim, Kevin J, Quincy, Kane Brown, Thanyia Moore, Judi Love and Kele Le Roc. Tickets cost £13.50 for adults and £6.50 for concessions.

In brief

Bridge refurbished

An historic bridge located on the border of Waltham Forest and Haringey has been restored to its former glory, thanks to Transport for London (TfL) and Council funding. The Ferry Boat Inn Bridge (Ferry Lane, N17 9NG) was built in 1915, and is a single span metal arch supported on brick-faced abutments spanning the River Lea. The structure was assessed to have weak footways, and the ornate cast iron parapets were in poor condition, particularly on the southern side where a number of panels were either missing or seriously corroded. The weak footways and parapets had also been protected by unsightly temporary 'mass barriers' for several years. Improvement works have included installing and refurbishing the cast iron parapets – including making several new bespoke panels – waterproofing the bridge, resurfacing the road and footway, and installing high 'containment kerbs' to protect the footways and parapets in the future. The cast iron standards on the four corners of the bridge were also shot-blasted and repainted, and new decorative lighting installed. The works took place as part of a scheme to install a segregated cycle lane and new 'toucan' crossing for cyclists and pedestrians on Forest Road. They also complement work being undertaken on the nearby Walthamstow Wetlands site, which is due to open to the public in 2017.

Thames Water 'smart meters'

Thames Water is sending letters to all residents between now and February 2017, informing them of plans to install compulsory water meters in Waltham Forest. It plans to install more than 56,000 'smart meters' on a rolling basis over the next three years. Thames Water says that installing meters could help residents save water and help detect leaks to save wastage. The entire Thames region is judged to be 'an area under serious water stress', as demand for water is higher than the available supply. There could be a 133 million litre shortfall by 2020 if consumption continues at current rates. Thames Water will give customers a two-year 'adjustment period' after their smart meter is fitted, in order to get used to the impact on their bill. Smart meters measure your water usage, meaning you only pay for what you use rather than paying a fixed bill.

Walthamstow Town Centre Improvements

As Waltham Forest continues to grow, we are working hard to ensure that the transport network in the town centre can support growth and that everyone can get around easily.

In the short term, we are working closely with Transport for London to transform the 'Walthamstow gyratory' (the area on Hoe Street and Selborne Road around Walthamstow Central tube station), to make the town centre a more pleasant, accessible and safer area for all road users.

From 1 November to the end of December 2016 minor works will take place to improve the bus station exit and the main gyratory area. Both Hoe Street and Selborne Road will be open as usual, however during the works lanes will be rearranged and traffic management signs and cones will be in place to direct traffic and keep vehicles moving. Although roads remain open we do expect disruption, and journeys to take longer than usual.

Residents will have the opportunity to shape the long term plans for the area when consultation takes place early in 2017.

The longer term proposals will include a new public space in the heart of the town and introduce a simplified traffic layout, better access to public transport, provide space for cycling and improve pedestrian crossings. The main work on the new bridge will take place from January to Summer 2017.

For information on the improvements and how your journey might be affected, please visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/e17roadworks.
